DISTRIBUTORS

The Company markets its products through a network of Distributors. For purposes of this summary, an “Active Distributor” is a Distributor who placed an order for products, promotional materials or services during the most recent three-month period. In the United States, the Company had an average of 80,927 Active Distributors during 2010.

COMPENSATION

There are two fundamental ways in which a Distributor can earn compensation:

- Through retail markups on sales of products purchased at wholesale prices; and
- Through commissions (sometimes called bonuses) paid on one’s product sales and the sales of other Distributors in one’s downline sales network.

As with any other sales opportunity, the compensation earned by Distributors varies significantly and is based upon the time Distributors devote to the business, etc. The cost to become a Distributor is very low. People become Distributors for various reasons. Many people become Distributors simply to enjoy the Company’s products at wholesale prices. Some join the business to improve their skills or to experience the management of their own business. Others become Distributors, but for various reasons, never purchase products from the Company. Consequently, many Distributors never qualify to receive commissions.

Generating meaningful compensation as a Distributor requires considerable time, effort, and commitment. This is not a get rich quick program. There are no guarantees of financial success.

RETAIL MARKUPS

Distributors can buy products from the Company at wholesale prices for resale to customers or for personal consumption. Specifically, Distributors can earn up to 30% retail profit on customer purchases. However, while our published retail prices are competitive with similar products in the marketplace, the published retail price is only a suggested price and distributors are free to set their own retail prices for customers. As a result, the Company does not provide an estimate of average income from retail sales, nor include Distributor retail income in its average commission information.

COMMISSIONS

Distributors can also earn commissions based on the sale of products by Distributors in his/her network of sponsored Distributors in all countries where the Company does business. The Company also sells promotional materials that do not generate commissions for Distributors.

In 2010, the Company paid approximately $626,231,000 in commissions and sales compensation globally. In the same period, the Company paid approximately $115,911,000 in commissions to Distributors residing in the United States.
